WE NOMINATE

William Goldman, one of the gifted literary craftsmen of his generation and hailed by some as a "new" American novelist of the first magnitude, who in this drought-plagued summer ranks as the most widely read Princeton author of recent years. Currently based here, with plans for moving his family to New York in the months ahead, this 35-year old Chicagoan has such a compulsive appeal for college-age readers that the paperback sales of four of his works have zoomed into the 100's of thousands, with one, the highly controversial "Boys and Girls Together," now approaching the 1.5 million mark.

As was recently noted by a discerning New Jersey critic, Goldman, a youthful-appearing member of the Oberlin College Class of 1952, is one of the "underground authors popular with a wide reading-audience and yet ignored by the high-brow critics and absent from the college textbooks." And Goldman is among the first to admit that his success is measured by over-the-counter sales rather than by "rave reviews." He points out that "my books have all been critical failures in New York, although a number of them have been well treated out-of-town. The books have died in hard cover."

Dividing his days between his Cleveland Lane home and an air-conditioned hotel room, where he can escape the distractions provided by two young daughters, aged one and four, Goldman is a prolific writer and works at a frenetic clip in creating characters "caught in the human condition." For instance, the summer after he had earned his Master's degree at Columbia University, Goldman, now adapting the screen play of a war novel about a deserter, devoted just two weeks to the first draft of "Temple of Gold," a volume that has now sold some 730,000 copies.

Goldman, who "craves" honesty when it comes to evaluating his writing, would appreciate the reactions of a candid senior at one of the Atlantic seaboard's top-flight women's colleges. Questioned about Goldman's impact on her generation, she said: "I have merely sampled his writing which seems uneven to me. However, several in the dormitory read 'Temple of Gold' and raved about it. Within a span of weeks 'The Temple' was being read up and down the corridors, with some calling it the 'best book' they had discovered in years and others opining that it and others must be included as required reading in English classes. No one seems to know why all of this is so."

Goldman, a collaborator with his older brother in writing and doctoring Broadway shows, who was called to Princeton University for a one-year appointment as Lecturer in Creative Writing, is engagingly candid. He states: "I am not a great stylist but I think I am an able craftsman. I write well narratives and dialogue. And when I write, I work hard." He also emphasizes that "I'm not very intellectual about my books. Everything I write is basically a story. I am not a thematic writer and I have never been a spokesman for our generation. Why is my opinion on current events worth making public? I'm no expert." The crew-cut author has an abiding enthusiasm, approaching a passion, for baseball and actually revels in baseball statistics, particularly those documenting the achievements of one of his heroes, San Francisco's Willie Mays.

For creating books which will "undoubtedly remain popular on college campuses as long as the young go after pretense and sham;" for his continuing development as a full-time writer of tremendous promise; for strengthening a literary tradition which is as much a part of Princeton as Nassau Street; he is our nominee as

THAI BOY WINS FRIENDS

From Hospital Bed. "I'm not homesick any more." Sumang Kowkum of Thailand smiled shyly but broadly at his American foster-mother and leaned back against the pillows of his Princeton Hospital bed.

"Sam" arrived in the United States on Sunday, August 14 to begin his American Field Service year at Hightstown High School. The next day, he became ill. On Wednesday, he was taken to Princeton Hospital.

For a week, he lay seriously ill, dismayed and alarmed at all the medical fuss going on around him, desperately homesick in spite of the continuing presence of his American "mother" at his bedside and above all, wishing that someone — anyone — could understand when he spoke his native tongue.

Last week, a brief story on "Sam" appeared in Town Topics. On Wednesday evening, a young girl who had spent last summer in Thailand, telephoned the hospital. By Thursday morning, two Thai graduate students had checked in to visit Sam.

The hospital's switchboard was alive with inquiries. More than 25 people called, a few of them just curious, but most of them eager to help the young stranger even though they couldn't speak his language.

By Friday morning, less than 48 hours after the story had first appeared, a total of nine Thai-speaking people living in the Princeton area had visited Sam, most of them several times, and late Friday morning, just before Sam said, "I am hungry," he said, "I'm not homesick any more."

Family Is Important. Sam's American "mother" is Mrs. John Bloom, Half-Acre Road, Cranbury. "Family ties are very strong in Thailand," Mrs. Bloom explained. "Leaving home was a difficult thing in itself for Sumang, and then to have a serious illness so soon. . . You see, he speaks English well enough, and can understand if you speak slowly. But he was so weak with illness and so disturbed that he simply could not think out the English words."

"That's the first time I've seen him smile," said Sam's physician, Dr. Benjamin Silverman, after the first visitor had greeted Sam in his native tongue. And Sam's smile is an enchanting thing to see. He is a slight, small-boned youth who looks younger than his 17 years and he has large, expressive eyes and a large mouth which probably, in Thailand, smiles a great deal.

SUMANG AND FRIENDS: Sumang Kowkum is a young student from Thailand who was stricken with serious illness less than a day after he arrived in the United States. He is shown here in Princeton Hospital with his American "mother", Mrs. John Bloom, and a young American, Mary Ann Hoffman, who came to chat with him in his native language. More about "Sam" and his Princeton friends in This is Princeton. (Staff Photo)

Sam's four graduate student visitors were young lawyers from Thailand now learning about American ways at Princeton University before going off to various other institutions for advanced study in American law.

One, who will be at Harvard, told Sam and Mrs. Bloom that he will be back during vacation to pay his countryman a visit.

Early Deadline Set

Because of the Labor Day holiday Monday, TOWN TOPICS deadline for display advertising in the next issue will be 5 p.m. Friday. Classified advertising must be changed or cancelled by that time but new classified ads will be accepted until 5 p.m. Tuesday. News material should be submitted as early as possible.

The girl who had spent last summer in Thailand is Miss Mary Ann Hoffman of Orchard Lane, Lawrenceville, who learned Thai during the summer weeks she spent in a Thai school. She showed Sam pictures she had taken of her Thai family. "I'm a little rusty in the language," she admitted.

Sam seemed content and at ease with Miss Hoffman, although the relaxed boy-girl relationship, so taken for granted by Americans, is quite alien to Thai culture.

Another who read about Sam was the Rev. Dr. William Tucker, who had been in Thailand and knew enough of the language to give the young student a greeting. He introduced to Sam the Rev. Taylor Potter and Mrs. Potter, Americans now in Princeton after nine years in Thailand.

Mrs. Carl Wolf, wife of the minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Cranbury, also came to the hospital to chat with Sam, but she discovered that Sam could not understand the Thai dialect she had learned as a resident of the country

"They Went Out of Their Way." "The people at the hospital were so wonderful!" Mrs. Bloom explained. "They really seemed to care."

Hugh Terry, the hospital's chef, and Miss Maxine McGowan, dietician, took special pains to see that Sam had rice whenever he wanted it, or as Mrs. Bloom says, "whatever else would tempt him to eat." Because food was as strange as language and custom.

Through AFS channels, the Blooms found a Thai girl, living in Mt. Holly who prepared special curries and brought them to Sam.

He's "home" now, back in Cranbury on Half-Acre Road, eating chicken, roast beef, hamburgers, salad, American vegetables and fruits, eager to learn all about American life, eager to participate in American sports and games.

His introduction to America was not quite what he expected it would be when he left Thailand, and the orientation was somewhat more rigorous than the usual AFS pattern, but at least, Sam isn't homesick any more.

report that his father, Gustav, had been approached by three young Negroes as he was walking on Franklin Avenue. They took his wristwatch with a gold band and a cameo ring, he said, and then ran off. No value for the stolen items was given.

Chief Peter J. McCrohan said that the elder Mr. Carlson was unable to give police any description of the youths other than they were Negro. The incident is still being investigated.

CHANGE PURSE NETS $122

Two Daylight Thefts. Two daylight thefts Thursday morning in offices on Nassau Street netted someone almost $200.

Ruth Graff of Levittowa, Pa., an employee of Computer Management Corporation, 194 Nassau Street, told police she had left her office for about 10 minutes shortly after 11 a.m. and upon her return noticed that her change purse had been stolen from her pocketbook. It contained $122, she said.

Earlier, at 10:37, Webb Harrison, 9 Battle Road, a chemical broker who has an office at 20 Nassau Street, told police a similar story. He had left his wallet in his coat which was hanging on a chair. When he returned it was gone. He told police it contained between $60-$70 in cash and several credit cards.

Another stolen purse victim was Wilhelmina Coers, 27 Hastiet Avenue.

Police said she had visited the Starr Inn on Birch Avenue late Friday night with a companion and had left her pocketbook under the front seat of his car parked in front of the tavern. When they returned about an hour later, they found the front door of the car open and her pocketbook missing.

The victim valued her red leather pocketbook at $35, her black leather wallet which contained $25 at $5 and a second leather wallet in her purse at $5. Total loss: $70.

$225 Watch Taken. Charles Williams, 25 Leigh Avenue of Tiger Cleaners, 50 Leigh, called police to report the theft of a $225 man's wristwatch Sunday from a sewing cabinet. He added that clean clothes had been removed from their racks and strewn about the floor.

Police said that a rear window of the store had been left open and was the probable means of entry. Sgt. John Petrone is investigating.

Virginia Cole of Newark returned from the Giant-Eagles football home here Saturday minus her $65 Polaroid camera.

She told police after parking her car in a lot west of Palmer Stadium she left her camera in the back seat under two sweaters. She added she locked her car but had left some windows slightly open. The sweaters were not taken.

Victims of hubcap thefts last week were G. A. Hamilton, 56 Stanworth Lane, and Jerry Petrillo of Trenton. Mr. Petrillo said he lost four spinner-type hubcaps worth $60 from his car parked on Witherspoon near Franklin Avenue.

Mr. Hamilton reported two caps taken from his Corvette on Friday while it was parked either on William Street or Stanworth Lane. Chief McCrohan said, "There was no value given but I can tell you the hubcaps on a Corvette are expensive."

NURSING HOME OKAYED

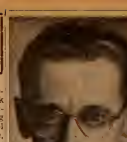
By Zoning Board. The Borough Zoning Board last week gave its approval, with restrictions, to plans for converting the old Quarry Street School into a 151-bed nursing home, and for adding a 50-bed wing to Merwick, the non-profit nursing home operated by Princeton Hospital. Both are subject to approval by Mayor and Council.

The rush to provide more nursing beds has been triggered by the nation's Medicare program and by an economic rule of thumb which says its costs half as much to take care of a chronically ill patient in a nursing home than in a hospital.

According to Simon Fried, 34 Howe Circle, who purchased the Quarry Street School on August 9 for $125,000 — he was the only bidder — there are only 80 nursing beds available at the moment in Princeton and only 224 in all of Mercer County. He cited figures showing that three to four percent of the 10 percent of the population that is over 65, need nursing home care.

Mr. Fried's purchase of the school from the Princeton Regional Board of Education was contingent on his receiving a use variance, recommendation from the Zoning Board. He testified that the cost of the building plus the extensive renovations represented for him an investment of "roughly a half million dollars."

Architect Arthur M. Rosenfeld, who drew the plans for the conversion, reported that the size and shape of the exterior walls of existing three-story building would be retained. A macadam area to the left of the school would be torn up and landscaped to provide an area of open space, part of which would be covered by an outdoor terrace. The classroom windows would be replaced with smaller ones.



IN VIET NAM: Raymond F. Male left this week for Viet Nam as part of a Government taskforce sent to study manpower problems. Story, page 4.

Before granting its approval, the Zoning Board listed several conditions: A front entrance circular drive, which would cross the sidewalk twice, is to be eliminated; lots 77 and 99 to the rear and right of the building are to acquired by Mr. Fried and any existing buildings on them torn down. In addition, the two lots and the eight embracing the school are to be combined into one lot.

Using its formula of one parking space for every 500 square feet of bedroom area, the board stipulated that the applicant must furnish 56 off street parking spaces, instead of the planned 44. Attorney Thomas C. Jamieson, who argued the case for Mr. Fried, told the board he was operating in a grey area as far as requirements were concerned because there is no specific reference to a nursing home as such in the zoning ordinance.

In another condition, the Board said there is to be no parking with in a 200-foot depth of Quarry Street. This was inserted to prevent the owner from absorbing some of the open space provided in the plans for parking.

Finally, any structual alterations and the main entrance must be to the rear of the existing building. Vehicular access from Quarry Street is prohibited. Mr. Fried admitted that it will be some time until all the details have been worked out and he can proceed.

From 41 to 91. Attorney Homer Zink presented the request of Princeton Hospital for a special permit and a side yard variance to permit the construction of a three story wing to Merwick, the nursing home it owns and operates off Bayard Lane. The wing would increase the number of beds at Merwick from 41 to 91.

Cost of the undertaking was listed at $900,000. Richard Moegel, 131 Westcott Road, vice-president of the hospital's Board of Trustees, testified that he hoped one-third of the amount would come from a federal grant.

As designed by architect O Kline Palmer of Palmer and Bowers, 141 Nassau Street, the L-shaped addition to the north of the present building would provide a bay window for each room to "give a semblence of living space," Mr. Palmer said, "and not just a bedroom." The steel frame-work is designed to accept a two-story addition. Parking would be increased to a total of 71 spaces.

Walter A. Seligman, associate administrator of Princeton Hospital, reported that medical breakthroughs of the past decade have created a need for nursing homes for convalescent patients.

Under a concept he termed progressive patient care treatment is divided into three stages: intensive care, intermediate and convalescent care. The convalescent patient is removed from the hospital whenever possible and placed in a nursing home where he can be cared for at half the cost. Merwick intends to open its doors to more of these patients and become a much more integral part of the hospital, he said.

In other business, the board, after meeting in executive session, said it would act favorably on a recommendation of the Planning Board that Princeton University be permitted to install a parking yard to the rear of the former Nassau Street School. In its recommendation the board will included the restriction listed by the Planning Board, that there be exits only on William Street.

NEW POST OFFICE?

Plans Under-Review. Three sketches for a proposed new post office building in the Township Hall area are now under review by Township officials. They expect to report their findings early this fall.

The sketches have been submitted by Arthur Parsons real estate officer for the post office in the Philadelphia area.

The Township has waxed and waned in its enthusiasm for a joint building which would be shared by municipal offices and the post office, chiefly because the post office needs about 5,000 more square feet of space than the Township does, and has insisted up to now on having all its operations on one floor.

Joseph R. Nini, Township Administrator, says the new sketches show post office facilities on more than one level. This reduces the overall floor area of the building considerably and makes it cheaper to build.

Mr. Nini and Township engineer Frank Quinby are now assembling figures on construction and maintenance costs and will present their report to Township Committee.

Who's Getting It?

Big black clouds
Up in the sky.
But rain just seems
To pass us by.

A few spot showers hit the Princeton area this week, but not everybody got them and they lasted only a minute or two.

Now, the Man thinks, we may get more of greater value on Friday. The weekend is expected to be clear, temperatures remaining above normal but with lower humidity.

MALE IS IN VIET NAM

As Manpower Consultant. Raymond F. Male, 76 Cedar Lane, New Jersey's commissioner of labor and industry and former mayor of Princeton, is now in Viet Nam as a manpower consultant.

Mr. Male left from Washington last Saturday for a three-weeks stay as advisor to Henry Cabot Lodge, United States Ambassador to South Viet Nam.

The appointment is really a "loan" from the state of New Jersey, according to Governor Richard J. Hughes. The request for Mr. Male's services came from Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz who became acquainted with Mr. Male when they worked together on a labor dispute in the construction industry.

A labor department task force reported to Secretary Wirtz in July that Viet Nam needed a manpower expert to coordinate the activities of the agency for International development (AID), a 300,000-man Vietnamese labor union and the government of South Viet Nam in working out the country's self-help program for villages.

Interwoven with these activities are the various projects undertaken by private business firms, and the defense and state departments of the United States government. It all adds up to a scattering of American and Vietnamese civilian employees engaged in building schools, digging wells, laying roads, improving hospitals and so on, and a need for

New Playwright?

"The Warrior," a tragedy written in Shakespearean verse by a young Princeton playwright-producer-actor is now under consideration by CBS.

Blake Samson, organizer of the Actors Summer Workshop and a soon-to-be-freshman at Northwestern, wrote his full-length verse drama last year. It was produced at the New Hampton School in New Hampshire, where he was a student.

Playwrights, by invitation or through an agent, may submit scripts for the forthcoming CBS Playhouse. Blake had neither invitation nor agent, so he wrote a plot synopsis and sent it off to CBS, asking whether anyone would like to see the script.

CBS said send us the script, and that's where it now is. "I've gotten so I wake up in the morning the exact minute the postman comes," Blake says.

'65) of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York.

Mr. Samson was a member of the ill-starred Great Road Players, and when they folded, he recruited some of the actors for his Workshop. He coached his students two evenings a week and Sundays, from late June to last week.

"Organic," or natural, acting is the school to which Mr. Samson belongs. "In organic acting," Mr. Samson explains, "everything is natural, without tension. I use 'method' techniques only in external stimulus. For example, in a scene where an actress is to come on effervescent and bubbling, I'll have her do a square-dance swing off-stage first and then when she comes on, she's like champagne."

Translating knowledge into action, Workshop players learned scenes from "A Taste of Honey," "Glass Menagerie," "Three Sisters" and "Ah, Wilderness!" among others presending them for residents of Merwick last Monday and for an audience of about 35 last Friday at Stuart Country Day School.

The scenes that excited Mr. Samson and his players most were a pair which he lifted, dialogue and all, from J. D. Salinger One was part of "Franny and Zooey," the other a scene from "Catcher in the Rye."

"Ambitious and enthusiastic young Samson would like to be the man to bring summer theatre to Princeton. He thinks it can be done cheaply by staging contemporary plays that don't need costuming and by "indicating" scenery. He hopes it can be done for $100.

This summer, he operated on a $60 budget — $10 each from six Princeton merchants Applegate's Florsl Shop, Conover Motors, J. D. Cleaver Co., University Store, Wige and Game and The Prep Shop.

"We've got $20 of that $60 left over to start next season," he says confidently.

Actors came and went as vacation schedules fluctuated but the hard core included Elisabrth Margosches, Tom Ainsworth, Tony Bloch, Andy Bloch, Karl Stange, Terrence Keenan, Maurine Keenan, Don Blumenfeld, Gary Wallace, Alan Kosmalska, Marie Taitano, Cheryl Warfield, Chirlie Kidd and Tracy Eddinger.

MAN OF ALL SCENES

Porter, ai Playhouse. Don Porter, now starring in "Any Wednesday" at the Bucks County Playhouse, has toured in "Taming of the Shrew" and "Twelfth Night," been on camera as Gidget's Daddy in the Gidget TV series and as Ann Sothern's co-star in the "Private Secretary" TV series and on Broadway in "Calculated Risk" and "Any Wednesday."

Which brings us to the present, because Don Porter is now repeating for Bucks County Playhouse audiences the part he created on Broadway in "Any Wednesday." The comedy will open in New Hope on Labor — next Monday — and will run through Saturday, September 17.

Marsha Hunt co-stars with Porter as the lonely-nuts-and deduction. Susan Watson and Richard Roat are also in the cast and you know who the director is, don't you? Don Porter.

"Biography," with Anne Jackson, will conclude its Playhouse run this Saturday night.

PLAY THOSE PLAY-OFFS

Rock 'n' Roll. The Rock 'n' Roll championship of the whole world will be decided this weekend at the Music Circus in Lambertville. Downbeat — 2 p.m. this Sunday.

Eleven regional winners from New York, Boston, Baltimore, Atlanta, Miami, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Houston, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia-Trenton will couverge — and that's the word! — on the Circus this Saturday.

They'll have a week-end of parties, sight-seeing in Bucks County (that historic rock 'n' roll country, and probably some jealous eye-ing of one another to see who's likely to win the $1,000 prize, which its Columbia recording contract and network TV appearance.

Second stringers will win $500 and a Columbia recording contract audition and third placers will receive $250. A door prize will be given to the member of the audience holding the winning ticket stub. Prize is a set of Rogers drums.

Competing Rock 'n' Roll bands will attend a performance of "Burlesque . . . At Its Best," with Lili St. Cyr, which is now playing at the Music Circus.

For "Burlesque," Miss St. Cyr will be joined by St. John Terrell, owner of the Music Circus. He will portray Fields

MAKE MINE RABBIT

From the Dye-Pot. At Stacy's, rabbit goes into the dye-pot instead of the stew. You should see the rabbit that looks like a zebra — talk about regimental stripes!

These are "fun furs" made into coats out of pelts generously contributed by French rabbits. Prices are modest, cut is rakish.

Let's begin with a $160 grey-white rabbit with stripes worked horizontally and wide, wide sleeves. A creamy coat at $175 has pale beige stirred in with the cream, and some fascinating black spots that make you ask "What fur is THIS?" (That must be terribly flattering to a rabbit.)

For $199, you may have that bunny with the black and white zebra stripes and he comes on strong, believe it from here.

They took a lot of trouble to get a rabbit to look like a leopard and the result is $265, but it's a great coat, even though you never saw a leopard with hair quite that long. Well, boys will be boys. . . .

One of our favorites is the inky, all-over black ($160) with kelly green taffeta lining, but actually the gayest of all in Stacy's zoo is the rabbit that looks like a giraffe. This one has been sheared down close, and dyed with wonderfully huge irregular spots of lemon tan and black — a real $198 beauty.

If a bear can walk like a man and a rabbit can be a gir-

Be a Voyager

"Giles Goat Boy" was the season's most discussed novel before it was even published and readers are already lining up sides: "Barth is a genius!" "Barth is a nut!"

At the Princeton Book Mart, Mr. Shadovitz is not taking part, but he is reading "Giles Goat Boy" and he says it's the most adventurous book he's read since "Ulysses."

His advice, to anyone who has started, is to keep going. It gets more rewarding the farther you go.

offe, where does that leave the guanaco? Right here on the rack. The guanaco at Stacy's is the real, real thing, as you can perhaps tell from the $550 price tag. It's a magnificent bear-hug of a coat in wavy red-headed shades with that fashionable horizontal styling. It has a clutch front and shawl collar. Bring on the cold!

Glenoit's Glenarch is like oyster white crushed velvet. Glenoit has lined this sport coat with silver-tipped black pile and turned back the big shawl collar so that the pile lies resplendent against the oyster-white of the coat.

Another Glenoit at Stacy is Tally Ho, in shaggy cream and tan stripes like a tawny Persian cat. It's seven-eighths length with a big, warm collar.

You know, of course, that Stacy is rack-full of hip skirts and hip slacks. One line of skirts swings from a wide white patent belt that gleams against black or tan herringbone. An olive belt, matte leather, goes with the grain of a dark olive plaid Antiqued leather restrain a camel hipster. The wool gingham has side pleats for even more swing.

Skirt-type skirts have been made from wool houndstooth with two-inch teeth, my dear: brown and cream in a "coffee-vanilla!" combination just made for autumn.

An olive corduroy A-line reverses to olive-orange-magenta wool plaid lining, and a poncho is exactly the same.

Off - campus, cotrained for some other campus, you'll wear Stacy's plum wool suit, the one with big, wide box-pleats and pea jacket, double breasted with purple anchor buttons. Stacy shows it with a short-sleeved knit pullover with boat neck and horizontal stripes in plum-kelly-turquoise.

Pantsweaters are wool, knit in Hong Kong by madmen. See the strands of green-olive- royal wool peeking through the regular one-inch holes in the shocking pink sweater? See? How could you miss! Also comes with tobacco brown and avocado-lemon-orange peppers. Two-inch tassel fringe swings from every edge.

Another Pantsweater is a long pullover. The bottom half has been knit in a small white popcorn stitch. The high yoke is olive, kelly, shocking, magenta and royal, each strand with fringed ends, each separated by white open crocheting. Fringe at the sleeves, too.

Sweater classics at Stacy occupy a 20-foot wall space, three shelves high, with co-ordinated skirts swinging softly underneath: bright coral, moss, avocado, hunter, teal powder, co-

by the Disney staff and is considered its best production.

The biography of Bambi is aided by the usual adorable animals, which only a Disney production can draw to perfection, while the comedy highlight of the film is centered in a rabbit, Thumper. The excellent comedy characterization and the typical Disney horseplay are prevalent, although the movie is equally steeped in terror. Man is the villian of the forest and, although he is never pictured, he represents death, fire, and destruction to the woodland creatures.

This topflight Disney Production, fantastic in its use of color, is appealing and delightful to all ages, although potential deer hunters are advised to keep their children home if they plan to take advantage of another venison season.

PLAYHOUSE and PRINCE

How to Steal a Million (now playing): Love, larceny and laughter are served up in generous portions in this suave comedy directed by William Wyler. Audrey Hepburn and Peter O'Toole star.

The plot concerns a French patrician, played by Hugh Griffith, who makes a living out of art forgery; his daughter, Audrey Hepburn who indulges him because she loves him dearly, and the exhibition of one of his finer phonies, the "Cellini Venus," in a French museum. When the father and daughter realize that the statue will be examined by experts, O'Toole is hired to steal the statue. The story turns into a hilarious cops and robbers contest within the portals of a Paris museum.

HE'LL SHOW YOU: Peter O'Toole is in the comedy, "How to Steal a Million," held over at both Prince and Playhouse.

It's New To Us

ment. It's referring to a broad felt marker pencil, but what it probably means is, "that's the kind of mark you'll make on campus . . . Right?

Felt-tipped writing tools are all over the department, broad, bold, strong and colorful or narrow enough to replace the ball-point pen in your life. You'll find them in black, blue, red, green, ready to mark your laundry, endorse the check from Dad, or even, one presumes, take notes in class.

Conservatives will choose UStore's ballpoint pen with the orchid on top or the one in tiger stripes. You know how people are. There are real-type pens in the case down below, the metal kind with ball-points or even nibs, for all we know. Flexible, transparent rulers are here, notebooks you can clamp things in if you have a phobia about ring binders; ring binders if you don't, and all that enticing blank paper waiting for scholarship.

THE LONG WEEKEND

With a Book. Sandy Koufax is an honest man who lets his ghost have equal billing. There it is, right on the book jacket: "with Ed Linn." Willie Mays is almost as honest, but he hides Charles Einstein's name way inside.

The Book Mart at 11 Palmer Square likes to lie in the shade on Labor Day weekend and listen to the traffic roar by. Nature lore is big in this bookshop, and one nature book that looks particularly appealing is "That Quail, Robert". It's about a quail that started life as an "unpromising egg"; in fact, he hatched himself out of the wrong end of the egg, and went on from there as a family pet. It's a slim book, exquisitely designed.

Stay-at-homes will be avid for "The International Nomads," by Lanfranco Rasponi. This is the book about the Jet Set, and it even has a glossary-guide of first names and nicknames for you to drop. Already you can drop "Lanfranco Rasponi."

"Death of a Doxy" is Rex Stouts' current Nero Wolfe mystery and "Everything but Money" is Sam Levenson's contribution to the warm-hearted family memoir catalogue.

If you're still catching up on vacation, Book Mart recommends those Mobil Guides. The $1.95 volume on New England also includes New York state and New York City.

MAN HIT BY CAR

Charles E. Davis, 40, of Columbus, a student at Princeton Theological Seminary, was struck by a car Tuesday morning at 8:23 while crossing Nassau Street near the English Shop.

He was admitted to Princeton Hospital with multiple lacerations and a frature of the right thigh. The hospital listed his condition as satisfactory.

The driver, Mildred B. Wermuth, 9 Titus Avenue, Lawrenceville, told the investigating officer, Sgt. Robert J. Anderson, that Mr. Davis reached the middle of the road and then started to turn back. Sgt. Anderson added that the victim told him he doesn't recall anything about the accident. Charges are pending.

Crash Injures Two. A Trenton woman and her daughter were injured Thursday evening at 9:15 when their car collided with another on Nassau Street, 90 feet from the intersection of Witherspoon.

Mrs. Robert C. Bridegum, 42, received nine sutures at Princeton Hospital to close a laceration of her nose. Her daughter, Susanne, 18, had pieces of glass removed from her scalp and left eye.

Sgt. Michael Carnevale reported that Mrs. Bridegum's car crossed some three and one-half feet into the opposite lane, causing it to strike a 1965 convertible operated by Harry McEwen, 22, of Route 1. He ticketed her for failing to keep right. Mrs. Bridegum told police that a woman driving a black car had forced her to the left.

Helmeth and Monroe fought the early-morning blaze, but Tri-County's molding shop and two warehouses and the soldering firm's building were almost destroyed before the firemen arrived.

The fire is believed to have started in the molding shop, and spread from there to the two storage buildings. Residents of the area reported hearing a series of explosions soon after the first alarm at 4 a.m. Firemen believe that acetylene and oxygen tanks in the soldering company's building blew up in the heat. The heat also melted the corrugated aluminum siding walls of Tri-County's molding shop.

Most of the lumber stored outside was saved by firemen with water. The plywood storage area was damaged and so were several electric saws and planes.

Tri-County was the victim of another fire last July 22. That one damaged the main offices and nearby warehouse. State police are also investigating the origin of that fire.

CEMETERY PLANNED

Beauty ON THE SQUARE

By Archimedes (Bernard)

Permanent waves are a bit like airplanes! From the dawn of history, men dreamt of wings for flight — and women dreamt of waves for beauty! But it wasn't until the early part of the twentieth century-1906-that the first permanent wave machine appeared. What a monster it was, with a huge instrument panel, a maze of cords and a price-tag of nearly $500 per permanent!

"Cold Waves," the miracle chemical processes that made permanent waving comfortable, efficient and economical for you, were born in World War II. They've been getting lovelier to own, and nicer to receive ever since. YOU now can enjoy a more flattering and manageable coiffure than the most pampered queen in times past!

Visit Taverwood Beauty Manor at 60 Palmer Sq. West or call 924-3983, and from this day forward make Your Crowning Glory worthy of its name!

News Of The CHURCHES

CONGREGATION PLANNED

For Montgomery Methodists. A Methodist congregation, the first new one in this area for many years, will be organized in Montgomery Township this September. The church will be under the direction of the Northern New Jersey Annual Conference.

The Rev. Paul Burks will preside as pastor at the first public meeting of the new church, scheduled for September 11 in the Municipal Hall. The Rev. Leon M. Gibson of the Princeton Methodist Church said officials of the church salute the new church in Montgomery and wish it every success.

He urged members of his church who live in Montgomery, and especially those with young children, to consider the new congregation, and if they find it more convenient than their present one, to feel free to affiliate with it. He commented, "The Methodist Church will be the better for this work in Montgomery Township; and Montgomery Township will be the better for this new church."

LAST WEEK

For Summer Services. The last of the summer union services of the three Princeton Presbyterian churches will be held Sunday at 10 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Donald M. Meisel will preach on "Moonlighting."

The final 10 a.m. service for the summer will also be held at the Princeton Methodist Church. The Rev. Leon W. Gibson will speak on "Christian Realism."

OPPOSITION VOICED

Against Night Racing. The New Jersey Council of Churches has announced that it is opposed to night racing at the four tracks in the state. The issue is scheduled to come before the voters in a referendum on November 8.

Samuel A. Jeanes, legislative chairman of the Council of Churches, said, "We believe that it can be demonstrated that night racing will be economically unsound, sociologically disintegrating and morally wrong." He called the referendum "a gross injustice to the three counties which have race tracks," Camden, Atlantic and Monmouth, explaining that these counties will be the ones which will suffer if night racing is approved.

The Council opposes the referendum because night racing will afford a "subtle temptation to even more people who are least able to afford to gamble." Dr. Jeanes pointed out that several business interests in the Camden area suffer during the period of racing because money which might normally be spent with these merchants is diverted. "The state should not exploit human weakness for tax revenue by making opportunities for gambling more available," he said.

TICKETS REQUIRED

For Rosh Hashanah Services. Because of limited facilities, tickets will be required for adults attending Rosh Hashanah services on September 13 and Yom Kippur services on September 23 and 24 at the Jewish Center.

Non-members of the Center may apply in person for the tickets, which are free to all. Tickets will be available on request beginning next Tuesday between 9 and 3. Phone reservations will be accepted starting on Tuesday for tickets to be picked up before Friday. Only two tickets will be issued to a family on a first-come, first-served basis.

Separate services for children, age five through 12, will be conducted in a tent on the Center grounds.

Question of the Week

Question: To help fight inflation, would you favor some kind of wage and price controls for the country?

Where asked: Palmer Square

Robert Ressler, Trenton, asbestos worker on Princeton University job: I think wages and prices shouldn't be limited by the government. To me, that goes against the idea of free enterprise and leans more towards socialism. If the government would watch its spending rather than saying how much a man should make, I think this would result in a better control of inflation.

Albert Olsen, Griggstown, associate professor Brandeis University: I think it would be extreme to do that. Seems to me what is needed is some self discipline in government spending.

John Taylor, Graduate School, politics: I think the answer is not wage and price controls but a tax increase—which we haven't had primarily because it's an election year. I'm not saying wage and price controls won't work, I don't think they should be tried before the more sound policy of a tax increase. Wage and price controls would be a logical second step.

Palmer Bateman, Somerville, business manager for newspaper: Yes. I think we've got to do it temporarily until the government stops over-spending which is the real cause of this mess.

Mrs. C. W. von Helmolt, 8 Stanworth Lane, housewife: I just came from Europe where that's a problem. Wage and price controls? I would say 'no'. I feel that should be done by other measures: voluntary cooperation of industry and by government spending.

Frederick Stephan, 24 MacLean Circle, member of the University faculty: I think wage and price controls aren't enough. I think we're in a situation in which we're attempting to manage the economy with incomplete controls. We need controls not only on wages and prices but on the flow of credit and a broader and more diffuse influence on the whole economy from businessmen, labor leaders and the public at large. So what we need to do is improve the effectiveness of this more complex system of trying to regulate the economy and avoid the extremes of rapid inflation and rapid deflation. I think a tax increase is simply an answer to be effective. At some time a tax increase may be a good part of a broader program—or a tax decrease.

Al Pressler, East Brunswick, consulting engineer, Nassau Street firm: Unless we had a national emergency, I'd say no. Let's not kid ourselves. Industry which is giving away big increases in wages is still making high profits and can offset big increases by improved production. As I see it, the crux is not so much wage and price controls but allowing industry to automate. Let them automate to the fullest. The old bromide about losing jobs to automation is not valid. Some 6 to 8 million new semi-skilled jobs will be created in the next few years as a result of automation.

J. F. McNerney, Vandeventer Street, administrative assistant: Yes, whatever contols would be required after a thorough study. The whole thing is beginning to snowball. Everybody appears to be aware of it. It's affecting so many people regardless of their income bracket—the man in business who goes to the bank and finds money tight even though he is not a credit risk as well as the housewife who goes to the supermarket and compares every item she buys for price. Nothing can keep pace with it. If you get more, then industry and the merchant want more. You can't get ahead so prices have to be stabilized. I don't see how we can keep on manufacturing dollars without having something to show for it.

Mrs. Joanne Stevenson, Skillman, secretary: I'm definitelly in favor of wage controls. And price controls? I'm for free enterprise and a democratic society and I'm a little hesitant to favor something that would restrict the freedom and development of free enterprise. Also, I feel there should be some kind of balance between the education you have and the money you receive. It distresses me to read of Ph.D.s who barely make a subsistence income and then discover there are truck drivers who make as much or more.

Edmund Balterin, Plainsboro, trainee, Applied Logic: They are not such a bad thing. We have such controls in France and I feel they are effective. The people don't like them but sometimes you have to take strict measures to strengthen the economy.

Chef Shadovitz, Roosevelt, student: Yes, I would. I think we should have price controls because we should serve the government and the government should serve us. You get to give and you got to take. I feel if it weren't for the government regulations now in effect, we might have a good chance of being in a depression already.

Merle Smith, Columbus, Ohio, pharmacist: I think eventually it will come around—perhaps in a few years—but I don't see any urgency for controls now. As far as a tax increase, I think taxes have risen enough. It doesn't make much difference between a tax increase or wage controls: either way you lose money.

How To Survive

Cory S. Kommler

Did you know each year half a million homes catch fire accidentally, and that it can be predicted with some accuracy where next year's fires may occur and what will cause them? A lot is known about household fires, yet many homeowners still refuse to admit the danger. Roof and other exterior blazes, for example, account for 11% of all reported residential fires. One in every five home fires involves kitchen cooking or heating equipment. Electrical causes create another 11% of total home property loss by fire each year, and spontaneous combustion takes its terrible toll. You can avoid similar tragedy. Read about the causes, know the dangers, and look for them. Then take positive preventive steps. We are always interested in what is best for you.

COURSES OFFERED For Would - Be Teachers.

Three teacher certification courses will be offered at Princeton High School during the fall semester. The courses will be given by Trenton State College in co-operation with the Princeton Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

Dr. Leonard J. Tharney, assistant professor of education, will offer "Teaching Social Studies in Elementary Grades," and Helene Condon, visiting lecturer in art, will direct "Teaching Arts and Crafts in Elementary Grades." Both subjects offer two semester hours credit each and are designed to meet the New Jersey teacher certification requirements for elementary school teachers.

A course entitled "Human Development and Behavior I," taught by Dr. Joseph L. Boyd Jr., visiting lecturer in psychology, will offer three semester hours' credit and will satisfy a requirement on both the elementary and secondary school certificate in New Jersey. Its sequel, "Human Development and Behavior II," will be open in the spring to those who have completed the first half of the course.

Classes will be held Tuesday evenings, with the first period, 6:30-8:10; the second, 8:15-9:55 and the third 7-9:30. Mail registration will end next Wednesday, September 7, and in-person registration will run from September 8-14 at the college campus. Classes will open September 20.

GIANT ERRORS COSTLY

Sherman: "We Beat Ourselves." A capacity crowd of more than 45,000 watched the most dramatic of the five New York Giant-Philadelphia Eagle football games in Palmer Stadium Saturday, recording a personalized memory tape of a wild finish that saw the Eagles jam over 14 points in 25 seconds to wrap up a 24-23 triumph.

In a series which heretofore had always seen the victor and the vanquished separated by at least two touchdowns, the contest provided the satisfying touch of turnabout which appeared to be another one-sided game into an action-packed finish. The spectator who went to watch two National Football League teams play came away content that he had seen 47 points posted on the scoreboard at a pace that began slowly and then added momentum to create a highly-unusual finish.

In a Caldwell Field House locker-room after the game, however, Allie Sherman, the highly articulate Giant coach, was telling newsmen that he "I wouldn't have been satisfied with our play even if we had won. We made far too many mistakes this afternoon," he said, adding, "Without taking anything away from the Eagles, we beat ourselves."

Four games into their exhibition season, and only a fortnight away from their NFL opener, the New Yorkers made more mistakes in play execution than a team hoping for a shot at a division title should. They were assessed 63 yards in penalties, a number of them for poor timing that cut down sizeable gains, and they lost the ball three times on fumbles. Two of these losses directly set up Eagle touchdowns.

Three Monstrous Errors. But far worse than their faulty execution were three errors in judgment — each one of which no self-respecting college team could walk off the field with its head high had it been guilty in similar fashion. Small wonder the Giants did not.

● In the second quarter, Spider Lockhart virtually wrestled a punt away from Phil Harris, the Giants' other deep man on kick returns. When the squabble wasn't settled by the time three big Eagle tacklers arrived on the scene, Philadelphia recovered on the New York 9, had a touchdown three plays later.

● In the final period, after the Eagles' recovery of another fumble saw them move from midfield to the Giant 11, fullback Izzy Lang took a Norm Snead swing pass and raced into the end zone so far way from the nearest tackler that the crowd roared in amazement. A New York linebacker blew his coverage of the flat area so badly that the play had all the appearances of a dummy scrimmage. Coming with less than two minutes left, the score narrowed the Giants' margin to 23-17.

● Three plays later, following recovery of an onside kick off, the Eagles got the winning TD by the simple expedient of sending the fleet Ben Hawkins past safety Dick Lynch to complete a 46-yard pass play. Lynch's nine years as a pro could not compensate for Hawkins' speed. One of the Eagles said after the game, "Lynch had been coming up toward the line of scrimmage so much during the second half that we figured we could beat him on that play if we ever got to the point where it was needed."

AARON IS RARIN': Aaron Thomas, 6-5 end for the New York Giants, has just completed over-the-shoulder catch from quarterback Earl Morrall. Eagles' defensive back Tait Reed (17) never had a shot at him on 70-yard touchdown jaunt. Eagles rallied in closing minutes for 24-23 triumph. (TOWN TOPICS Photo by Bob Matthews)

Some Cause for Cheer. Three factors during the afternoon did bring cheer to Sherman and the thousands of Giant fans who watched the proceedings in 85-degree heat under cloudless skies. After a disappointing first half (3 for 9, good for 33 yards), quarterback Earl Morrall twice connected for the bomb — once to Homer Jones for 65 yards, again to Aaron Thomas for 70.

Pass blocking for Morrall grew progressively better, and rookie tackles Don Davis and Francis Peay continued to fit into the Giants' hopes for a stronger offensive line in 1966. Cornell's Pete Gogolak booted three field goals — one a 46-yard beauty — and his first two enabled the New Yorkers to take a 6-3 halftime lead into the dressing room.

The Giants' running game was generally unimpressive, only fullback Chuck Mercein (10 carries for 44 yards) showing up well as the losers were held to 75 yards on the ground. Giant blocking could not handle the Eagle linebackers and defensive backs when the play went to the outside.

The Eagles won because of their opportunism and Norm Snead's ability to direct three touchdown passes despite an overall performance no better than 17 for 37 and 169 yards. Like the Giants, the Eagles' running game was rarely of professional calibre, chalking up only 72 yards during the contest.

Philadelphia's Sam Baker opened up the scoring with a 20-yard field goal, booted three extra points and put enough "draw" on the onside kickoff so that it traveled the required ten yards and then actually spun back into the arms of a charging Philadelphia lineman. In addition to Hawkins and Lang, end Ron Goodwin scored one of the victors' touchdowns.

"We figure to improve, to eliminate some of the mistakes as we go along, but we will be a different team every Sunday," Sherman said in his postgame conference. "We will beat some teams we shouldn't and we will lose to some we should beat."

If Jimmy Brown makes his retirement stick and Cleveland goes without him in 1966, the Eastern Division title in the NFL will be up for grabs. But if the Giants continue to beat themselves on occasion — in addition to the games they lose because they are genuinely

Tigers to Blairstown

Seventy-eight players, half a dozen coaches and a score of trainers and student managers will depart for Blairstown this Thursday as Princeton University begins two weeks of intensive pre-season football practice.

The Tigers will remain there until Friday, September 16, holding two-a-day sessions as they seek to fill the gaps caused by the loss of 17 lettermen. Only four starters from the defensive platoon are missing, but nine of the 11 players who started on offense have gone.

The season will open on September 24 when Rutgers makes its annual appearance in Palmer Stadium. The 1966 schedule is comparatively slim at home, Columbia, Colgate, Harvard and Cornell completing the list here. Games on the road are with Dartmouth, Penn, Brown and Yale.

A LOT RIDES ON THEM: Jeff Bullock is the leading candidate for the vital position of tailback on the Princeton High School football team, and Tom Murray will serve as the new assistant to head coach Dick Wood, replacing Jerry Groninger. Murray will be responsible for mapping the defensive strategy of the Little Tigers.

tackle as a sophomore and Wood reported that he may still use him as such because of the similiarity of blocking in the positions. Although not too big, Wood said Fox did a good job as quarterback in jayvee play. Despite his size, he is described as tough and in excellent physical condition. Donald's previous experience has been sparse.

Fullback: In a word, depth. Wood has some baby bulls of his own — three of them in the persons of Keu Grob, Carmelo Mauro and Charlie Madden. The latter is the third of the athletic Madden family, following brothers Larry and Roger on the football field. A fourth is on the way up.

Grob, 185 pounds, 5-11, played a lot both offensively and defensively for the Blue and White last fall. "He is a good, strong runner for the position," said Wood. Grob is a letterman.

"Even bigger yet," is the description of Mauro, who last year checked in at 205 pounds as a junior. Like Grob, Mauro is a letterman and a fine runner.

Madden also tips the scales around the 200-pound mark and has the size and the strength for a fullback. Speaking of the three, Wood said all would play both ways.

Angelo Cenerino, a junior, is a fourth prospect. Wood remarked that Cenerino hasn't had much chance to play so far. "He's got fairly good size, though," said Wood, "and he'll get a chance at it this year."

Wingback: Painful as the departure of Mitchell was, it was lessened by the presence of Jeff Bullock. A sprinter on the track team, Bullock has speed. The question-mark is his passing. Overriding both, perhaps, is what Wood calls his "good football sense."

outplayed—the total in the loss column will be more than hopes of a first-place finish can withstand.

PHS FOOTBALL I

(This is the first of three articles on Princeton High School's football prospects for 1966.)

Tailback the Big If: Asked to assess the backfield he will have this fall, Princeton High School football coach Dick Wood replied, "The big question mark is tailback. If we can get a boy who can run and throw, one who can get our offense moving, then we'll have a ballclub."

Earlier, the question - mark did not exist. Curt Mitchell, elected co-captain of the team with Tom Wood, was expected easily to fulfill the demands of the position.

Although Curt spent most of the season on the bench watching starter Bill Cirullo, he developed his running and passing consistently. In the final contest with Madison last year, Mitchell was throwing bombs to end Rich Volz.

There is no question that Curt came into his own in that game, according to Tom Murray, who will serve as Wood's assistant this year. Unfortunately, Curt, who seemed on the verge of becoming the complete tailback that PHS has lacked since the days of Jack Hawkins six years ago, moved with his family in June to California. "We don't even like to talk about it," lamented Murray.

The entire starting backfield of 1965 has departed. Graduation claimed wingback Eddie McEwen, quarterback Jack Van Zandt, tailback Bill Cirullo, and Craig Beachell and Lou Balestrieri, who alternated at fullback. It was not a particularly explosive backfield.

Balestrieri emerged as the team's leading scorer, plunging for five of the team's total of 16 touchdowns. McEwen scored four times, twice on passes, and Beachell contributed one TD.

Yet, despite the untimely loss of Mitchell and of an entire starting backfield; despite the return of only four backfield lettermen, Wood sees no need to reach for the alarm button. He is about to reap the talent of senior boys who were undefeated as a freshman team and a group of juniors who lost only one under freshman coach Jack Houtenville.

They are brimmed with confidence and extra eager. Their names, many of whom PHS followers will recognize from last season, are listed in the following rundown of the backfield positions.

Wingback: The leading candidate for wingback is junior Huston Webber, a letterman who played mostly last fall as a defensive linebacker. Says Wood, "Webber is real strong, can block well and is a fine pass receiver. And he's solid."

As a sophomore, Webber weighed 181 and stood 5-10. This year, he should be around 190, 6-0, statistics which prompted Coach Murray to say "In Webber, we have one of the biggest wingbacks we've had in a long time. In contrast, McEwen, his predecessor, weighed 150 and measured only 5-6. "Eddie was good for his size (nearly 100 yards in one game against Notre Dame last year) but when he had to tackle a big tailback, he'd bounce off," commented Murray.

Behind Webber is senior Stewart Bell. According to Wood, Bell runs very well — a requisite of the position — throws fairly well and is a fair receiver. He is a southpaw and might help vary the Little Tiger passing game.

In the wings are juniors Tommy Taylor and Ronald McEwen, Ed's younger brother. The word on Taylor: ". . . lots of possibilities. . .is fast, . .has good size . . .might play defense." McEwen is tagged as a "hard-nosed kid who has grown a lot and who is very anxious to play." Described as a good tackler by Wood, he, too, might fit in on defense.

Quarterback: Last year's starting quarterback Jack Van Zandt, performed not only in a workmanlike manner but proved to be very durable. Consequently, no one on the 1966 squad has varsity experience for the position, which, under the single wing used by PHS, is mainly a blocking assignment—in addition to calling the plays.

In line to take over is senior John Milchonuski. Wood said that John played a lot of jayvee ball and "is far as calling the plays and running the team, I think he'll do a good job." He has good size: 6-0 and 170 pounds.

There are four in contention to take over, should Milchonuski need to be spelled. They are senior John Duncan, whose play last year was hampered by a broken leg sustained two years ago, and juniors Walter Goodale, Fred Fox and Sandy Donald.

Goodale played the running

Bullock seems to come by his naturally.

As a junior last year, Bullock was used primarily on defense, although he did score one of the teams TDs, a four-yard scamper against Ewing. But it was as a defensive halfback that he was outstanding.

He led the team by a wide margin in pass interceptions with six. His timing on defense was faultless. Whether he can make the switch to offense and still retain his past glitter is something Wood and Murray will be watching with great interest.

In the event Bullock fails as a passer, Wood can turn to Tom Yoder. If Bullock has a natural football sense, Yoder is a natural athlete. "He's a typical tailback, observed Wood. "He can run and he can pass. It's too bad he didn't play as a sophomore. He would have gained from the experience."

Two more possibilities are juniors Matt Alexander and Bill Walstad. Both can and passed the ball in jayvee play but each needs experience.

Wood May Turn to Wood As a final possibility, Wood reported he may turn to his own son, Tom, 6-5, 215-pound co-captain of the team, who played end last season. Wood did some throwing in the finale last year and Coach Wood called him "the best passer in the bunch." Not a speedster, Tom can run well, however, to the inside. At 6-5, 215, he would be the biggest Little Tiger tailback in history.

The single wing puts a premium on power plays and solid blocking. Here PHS appears to measure up. But to keep the defense honest and to avoid running into eight-man lines, an effective passer is a must. This is the grey area that has hung like a cloud over the Little Tigers in past years and is there again in 1966. Wood and his staff are hoping for a little more sunshine.

(Next week: The line and defense.)

NEW OPPONENTS LISTED

On PHS Grid Schedule. The Princeton High School Little Tigers will meet three schools for the first time this fall on the gridiron — North Hunterdon, J. P. Stevens (Edison) and Asbury Park. Dropped are Thomas Jefferson, Woodbury and Bridgewater-Raritan.

The Little Tigers will open the 1966 season September 24 at 2 at Hamilton High School. Their home opener will take place the following week, October 1, against Ewing. All nine contests will be league outings—Southern Division of the New Jersey Conference—with the exception of North Hunterdon and Notre Dame.

The complete schedule: Sept. 24, Hamilton, away; Oct. 1, Ewing; 6, North Hunterdon, away; 15, Trenton; 22, J. P. Stevens; 29, Asbury Park, away; Nov. 5, Steinert, away; 12, Notre Dame; and 19, Madison.

PHYSICAL WEDNESDAY

For PHS Football Prospects. A complete physical examination will be given all Princeton Day School football candidates next Wednesday, and those given the green light will be issued equipment the same day. The first practice session will be held the following day.

This year, PDS will have boys through 11th grade and as a result it will pursue a junior varsity schedule only for one more year. The first graduating class will not appear until 1967-68.

Co-captains of this year's squad are Sandy Wandell, 151 Mt. Lucas Road, and Bill Rigot of Trenton. Head coach Dan Barrera and his assistant, Bud Tibbals, have announced a seven-game schedule for 1966. Last fall, PDS won four, lost two and tied one.

The 1966 schedule: Oct. 5, Montclair Academy; 12, Blair Academy; 19, Pennington Prep; 26, Pingry, away; Nov. 2, Hun School, away; 9, Peddie, away; and 16, Morristown Prep. All home October games will be played at 3:30; all games in November will be played at 3.

REGISTRATION SATURDAY

For Midget Football. Registration for the Midget Football League will be held Saturday morning from 9 to 11 in the Valley Road School gymnasium. William Schilling will be in charge.

All boys from 9 to 13 attending school in the Borough or Township are eligible. Nine-year-olds will be eligible only for football school. Directed by Jack Petrone and Jack saporh, the football school will provide training in football fundamentals and an opportunity to use them in a schedule of touch football games.

Boys 10-13 will tryout for positions on four teams of 25 boys each. Sufficient funds have been raised to purchase 100 sets of uniforms and equipment.

There will be no workouts on September 10 and 17, only registration and weighing in. Each boy will receive a form for his parents' approval and one for his doctor. The first session of the football school will be September 24.

ACCELERATOR WINS

In Softball Playoff. Western Division champion Accelerator defeated RCA B, eastern leaders, 5-3 and 5-4, last week to retain the championship and the TOWN TOPICS trophy. RCA A took two games from Education Service to finish third in the playoffs.

In the first Accelerator-RCA B clash, both teams came up with eight hits but Accelerator turned them into five runs while RCA B could manage only three. The winners scored twice in the opening frame on singles by Darrel Dobin and Tom Wunderlich and a double by Eric Bergstrom. They added two more in the second on a single by Dobin, an error and a double by John Ruczyek. Their final run came in the sixth on a home run by Bucky Sandford.

RCA scored one in the third and two in the sixth with four singles and Bob Kreiger's double. Tom Ward, the losing pitcher, drove in two runs. Jack Bartow gained credit for the Accelerator victory.

In the second game of the best-of-three playoff, Accelerator collected 15 hits to edge by RCA, 5-4. Joe Frangipani went 3 for 4 at the plate to lead the way. The winning run came in the eighth after Accelerator loaded the bases on a single by Sandford, a double by Frangipani and an intentional walk to Joe MacFadden. Tony Cervania followed with a game-winning single. Bartow was the winning pitcher and Ward the loser in the second contest.

In the battle of the runners-ups in each division, RCA A swept by ETS, 7-6 and 12-8, to take that playoff in two games.

In the opener, Wally Reichert went 3 for 3 to lead RCA to victory. The winning run came in the 11th inning on a single by Ed Lopatin, an error and a single by Frank Michelitti. ETS nearly tied the game in its half of the inning, but a perfect peg from centerfielder Bob Miller to Steve Connor cut down an ETS runner trying to score from second on a single.

In the second game, RCA A came up with four runs in the sixth inning to break an 8-8 tie. With two outs, pinch-hitter John Hughes homered and five more hits followed. Bob Arlett went 4 for 4 and Hank Hood drove in three with two doubles. Guy Nelson slammed two home runs and collected four RBI's, while Ken Stamples hit a home run for the losers.

TROTTER WINS

For Princeton Resident. Dee Express, a four-year old trotter owned by Herbert H. Hagens, 61 Lower Harrison Street, scored its first victory at the Freehold Raceway, Friday. The horse paid $14 for a $2 bet and collected a purse of $630, plus $378 from the New Jersey Breeders and Trainers Association for a total of $1008.

Mr. Hagens said that he bought Dee Express as a three-year old in January of 1965 for $1000 and trained it at Pine Lane Farms near Freehold. The horse, driven by Robert Myer of Hightstown, began racing this year and has run six times under mutuel conditions. It also won twice at Johnson Park, New Brunswick, in the spring.

The trotter is quartered at the Freehold Race Track, where Mr. Hagens plans to continue to race it. He explained that when he races the New Jersey horse in the state, he is given an additional 60% of the prize money for a successful finish by the Breeders and Trainers Association.

Dee Express generally runs about once a week, and may compete this Thursday or Friday at Freehold, Mr. Hagens, owner of Hagens Recording Studio in Princeton, says he's hoping to make enough from the horse to put his son, Peter, through Rensselaer Polytech and his son, Herbert, through Wooster in Ohio.

AREA SWIM MEET SET

For Saturday at Pine Brae. A meet for Princeton area swimmers will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Pine Brae Country Club on the Blawenburg-Rocky Hill Road. LOSERS WEEPERS: and there's nothing more frustrating than having the perfect house slip away just because you didn't act fast enough. So, never let it be said we didn't give fair warning! This fine 5 bedroom (one is tucked away by itself just waiting for that independent teenager) Borough house might very well be gone tomorrow. Carpeted living and dining rooms, well equipped kitchen, huge panelled family room with oak parquet floors, a fireplace and sliding doors to the terrace, 2½ baths, separate laundry room and a most useful relic from another era, back stairs. Two car garage, leaced yard. Apple pie condition. Be the keeper, not the weeper. $47,500

IT AIN'T NECESSARILY SO: The term 'colonial' can oft conceal a multitude of sins (architectural and otherwise) and usually does, when lightly tossed off by the advertising copywriter. Here, we refer to a 150 year old two story house of stone and frame construction which was entirely (and beautifully) rebuilt some 30 years ago. It contains a square living room with fireplace and random pine floors, handsomely proportioned dining room, cosy study with a second fireplace, large country kitchen, pine panelled breakfast room and two lavatories downstairs. On the second floor there is a master bedroom with fireplace, plus two other bedrooms and two baths. There are seven acres of land with trees, a pond and several useful outbuildings. Midway between Princeton and Lawrenceville. $60,000

SNOWDEN LANE: is a delightful street: convenient, unpretentious, and home to a typical cross-section of Princeton residents, professors, commuters, attorneys, teachers, chemists and salesmen. If you care about 'neighborhood' and are looking for a modestly priced house, then we can certainly help. We have a 15 year old one story house in perfect condition on a tree-lilled half acre. Living-dining combination, nicely updated kitchen, study (could be separate dining room) 3 bedrooms, bath. Breezeway, two car garage, full cellar. A very sensible buy at $33,500

IF THIS WERE JUST AN ORDINARY HOUSE, YOU WOULDN'T BE INTERESTED: But extraordinary is the word; Rusticated, round-arched, Romanesque extraordinary! Built in 1874 of stone, it has walls 18" thick, high ceilings, 6 fireplaces, over an acre of ground and endless possibilities. $55,000
